In association with:

Introduction

This Index Chart Book is intended to run in parallel with the EPRA Statistical Bulletin and Monthly Review. While the bulletin focuses on performance, this index chart book will use the same data in an effort to identify historical trends and indicators on the index series. In this quick commentary, we will each month highlight a particular graph, either for explanation or for noteworthy developments when compared to the previous month.

Graph

This month's highlighted graph is Graph 5, the Relative Strength Indicator (RSI) for the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Global Developed index, as shown on the right.

Explanation

The RSI is an index between 0 and 100 that shows the price strength of the index by comparing upward and downward movements. If the index is in the 0-30 region, the market is oversold and if the index is in the 70-100 range, the market is overbought.

As the graph shows, the Relative Strength Indicator ended its decline and now has risen back in the "neutral zone" both globally and regionally except Europe (graphs 5, 28, 49, 70 and 91). From a country level, the picture is the same. Hong Kong, Belgium and Sweden are the only countries with still neutral RSI values left, although for Sweden this is a rebound after being in the "Oversold" zone for a few months.

Other developments

Regarding the 5 Year Moving Average Oscillator: both global (developed) and the three developed regions (graphs 4, 27, 48, 69 and 90) continue to show dropping oscillator value (the difference between the 5 year moving average and one year moving average). All values have become negative and as such showed a downward trend.

The average true range has decreased since the record October levels for Global Developed (graph 4). For the developed regions (graphs 27, 48, 69 and 90), however, the true range value still are historically high indicating that real estate markets are experiencing increased volatility. This increase in volatility is confirmed by a number of other indicators. For instance, graph 23 shows the candlesticks for the global developed index. The larger the candlesticks are, the larger the differences were between the intra-day open, high, low and closing prices.

When we look at the Bollinger Bands, as a measure of volatility, the picture is also quite clear (for the developed markets: graphs 6, 41, 62, 83, and the emerging markets: 92) During the 2003-2006 run, the index continuously traded along the upper band, pushing it higher and higher. The 2007 and 2008 market correction saw the index dropping to near the lower band, and in December the index actually dropped below the lower band. Up to 2003 all three bands were parallel, but since then we see a widening of the bands, which indicates that the market has become increasingly volatile.

Regarding dividend yields, Australia still springs out. Graph 35 compares the dividend yield for Asian countries, and although all Asian countries have bottomed out and now show rising dividend yields, the Australian yield has jumped to the highest level since December 1991. North American countries (graph 77) and European countries (graph 56) also show steadily rising yields, with Sweden and The Netherlands rising to March 2004 and March 2005 levels.

The graph displays the Value-at-Risk (Min) over time. The y-axis is labeled 'Value-at-Risk (Min)' and ranges from 0 to 6,000 in increments of 1,000. The x-axis shows time from Dec-92 to Dec-08. The line starts at approximately 800 in Dec-92, rises to a peak of about 1,400 in early 1993, and then fluctuates between 1,000 and 1,500 until mid-2005. From mid-2005, there is a sharp upward trend, reaching a peak of nearly 5,000 in late 2007. In early 2008, the value drops significantly to around 3,500, then recovers to approximately 4,200 by Dec-08.

The graph illustrates the evolution of the French REIT market from 2005 to 2008. The Y-axis represents Return (ranging from -5% to 25%), and the X-axis represents Risk (St Deviation) (ranging from 0% to 25%). Three asset classes are plotted: France Real Estate (blue line), France Bonds (magenta line), and France Equities (red line). The REIT market is introduced around 2005. The graph shows a general upward trend in returns and risk over time, with significant volatility and a major peak around 2008.

Asset Class Comparisons and Correlations

The asset classes are defined as follows. For real estate, the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT indices are used. For broad equities, the national headline index is used (i.e. FTSE 100, CAC 40 etc.) and for multi-country profiles, the FTSE All-world index series is used. For bonds, the JPMorgan Bond index series is used.

Average True Range

The difference between the 1Y high and the 1Y low in index points. A higher reading indicates a higher volatility.

Beta Coefficient

The Beta Coefficient is a measure of a portfolio in relation to the rest of the financial market. It is calculated as follows:

$$\text{Beta} = \frac{\text{Covariance}(10Y \text{ Average Returns Broad Equities and } 10Y \text{ Average Returns Real Estate})}{\text{Variance Real Estate}} * 100$$

Bollinger Bands

A set of Bollinger Bands are a tool that can be used to measure the 'high-ness' or 'low-ness' of the price relative to the previous one, and acts as a measure of volatility. The Bollinger Bands consist of three lines: a middle band showing a simple moving average, an upper band located at twice the standard deviation above the middle band, and a lower band located at twice the standard deviation below the middle band.

Candlesticks

Candlestick charts give an overview of the daily Open, High, Low, and Close price of the index over a certain period, in this case a month. The graph presents the relationship between these prices and as such show an indication of volatility. Candlesticks can only be created on securities that have intraday pricing, and so for this graph the real time price indices are used (instead of the total return indices that are used in the remainder of this chart book). A candlestick chart reads as follows:

If the body is colored green,
then the index went up.
If colored red, the index closed down.

Capital Allocation Line

The CAL is the line between a risky asset (either a real estate portfolio or a broad equity portfolio), and the risk-free rate. The risk-free rate is derived by extrapolating the line between the risky asset and the JPMorgan bond index.

Dividend Yields

The dividend market capitalisation (defined as the dividend multiplied by the shares in issue and free float percentage) paid during the last twelve months as a percentage of the investable market capitalisation of the index.

Efficient Frontiers

The efficient frontier shows the minimum variance portfolio (or least risky portfolio) for a given rate of return. The resulting line shows the most efficient portfolio for any given combination of risk and return. Rational investors will construct portfolios that have risk-return profiles that are located on this frontier.

The efficient frontiers are calculated using data from a rolling 10-year period.

Equally Weighted Value-at-Risk

The Value-at-Risk of an index is calculated by multiplying the market capitalisation of an index by the 10Y standard deviation of the index. Equally weighted refers to that older observations are given the same weight as the more recent observations.

Investment Horizons

The ratio of the average monthly return divided by the average monthly volatility over the specified periods, 1 to 18 years.

Moving Averages

The oscillator compares the long term (5Y) average with the short term (1Y) average. When these two lines cross a change in trend is identified. The graph shows the difference between the long term and short term. A negative difference indicates a downward trend, and a positive difference indicates an upward trend.

Relative Strength Indicator

The Relative Strength Indicator is an index between 0 and 100. A value between 70 and 100 indicates that the market is overbought, and a value between 0 and 30 indicates the market is oversold. The RSI is calculated using the following formula:

$$RSI = 100 - \left[\frac{100}{1 + \text{ABS} \left\{ \frac{1Y \text{ Average Monthly Gain}}{1Y \text{ Average Monthly Loss}} \right\}} \right]$$

Retracement Levels

The Fibonacci ratios (0.618, 0.50 and 0.382) are applied to the range between the 1Y High and 1Y Low.

Retracement levels are important in the case of a "changing market", i.e. when the index breaks out of its trend.

When the index breaks out of a long-term upward trend and starts a downward correction, the retracement levels show support levels.

When the index breaks out of a long-term downward trend and starts an upward correction, the retracement levels show resistance levels.

Risk/Return Profiles

The risk/return profile-value is determined by the 10Y average risk (calculated by the standard deviation) on the X-axis and the 10Y average return on the Y-axis.

Seasonality Chart

This chart compares the index value on a year-by-year basis. Each line represents the index in a particular year, and when combined with each other, a comparison can be made to see whether a pattern can be found, i.e. does the index always perform the same way in a particular month.

Sharpe Ratio

The Sharpe ratio is a measure of the excess return (or Risk Premium) above the risk free rate (as measured by the JPMorgan Bond index) per unit of risk in an investment asset or a trading strategy. It is calculated as follows:

$$\text{Sharpe} = \frac{(10\text{Y average return of the index} - 10\text{Y average return of the risk free rate})}{10\text{Y Volatility}}$$

Technical Analysis

This is an attempt to indicate long term trends in the movement of the index.

PLEASE NOTE: Identifying these trends, especially the resistance and support levels, is subjective and expresses the views of the author only and not necessarily the view of EPRA. Please refer to page 116 for further details.

Velocity

This liquidity measure is calculated by the number of shares traded over a 12-month period divided by the free-float adjusted shares in issue at the end of the period.

Volatility

The volatility shows the variability of returns over a 12-month period, revealing the extent by which the returns of an index value change from the average.

Low volatility indicates the returns for an index have stayed quite close to the average whereas a high volatility would indicate a larger fluctuation over the time period. Volatility can therefore be seen as a market measure for risk.
